Reserved seats at Spratt's drug store Monday morning.

For years our town stores were over run with butter, good, bad and otherwise, and they welcomed the coming of the Continental Creamery, who sent the cash and bought the cream, shipping to their factory in Topeka, relieving the stores and sending money in for the farmers to spend. The farmers saw there was more money in it for them, besides saving their family the hard work and welcoming their coming and more are shipping and the Company report Jan. 1st, shows that they paid during the past year nearly $6000 to the patrons of their Receiving station in Hays. It has been like pension money to our merchants and means thousands of pounds of butter.

And so careful are the farmers of what they bring in, so as to get the highest price, the company are pleased and have increased their appropriation for their Hays station to $10,000 for this year, which pleases our merchants and certainly pleases their patrons.
